Restriction/Election

Restriction to one of the following inventions is required under 35 U.S.C. 121:

- I. Claims 50-58, drawn to a laminate, classified in class 428, subclass 411.1.
- II. Claims 59-69 and 71, drawn to an eye lens, classified in class 351, subclass 159.
- III. Claims 70 and 72-79 drawn to a method of molding a lens, classified in class 264, subclass 1.7.

The inventions are distinct, each from the other because of the following reasons:

Inventions in Group II and Group I are related as combination and subcombination.

Inventions in this relationship are distinct if it can be shown that (1) the combination as claimed does not require the particulars of the subcombination as claimed for patentability, and (2) that the subcombination has utility by itself or in other combinations (MPEP § 806.05(c)). In the instant case, the combination as claimed does not require the particulars of the subcombination as claimed because the eye lens does not require the adhesive to be formulated to have sufficient flexibility to prevent crazing during molding. The subcombination has separate utility and can be used in other combinations such as a laminate that can be used in an eye lens having a center thickness greater than 22 mm or in an eye lens that has other portions that are not necessarily compatible for purposes of preventing degradation.

Inventions in Group III and Group II are related as process of making and product made.

The inventions are distinct if either or both of the following can be shown: (1) that the process as claimed can be used to make other and materially different product or (2) that the product as claimed can be made by another and materially different process (MPEP § 806.05(f)). In the instant case the process as claimed can be used to make other and materially different product such as an eye lens that has a laminate with a center thickness of greater than 2 mm and a lens center thickness of greater than 22 mm as well as to make an eye lens out of materials that are not formed to prevent degradation.

Inventions in Group I and Group III are related as product and process of use. The inventions can be shown to be distinct if either or both of the following can be shown: (1) the process for using the product as claimed can be practiced with another materially different product or (2) the product as claimed can be used in a materially different process of using that product (MPEP § 806.05(h)). In the instant case the process for using the product as claimed can be practiced with another materially different product. Specifically, the method of making an eye lens can use a laminate of a completely different structure than that set forth in claims 50-58 such as a laminate that does not have an adhesive formulated to have sufficient flexibility to prevent crazing during molding.

Because these inventions are distinct for the reasons given above and have acquired a separate status in the art as shown by their different classification, restriction for examination purposes as indicated is proper.

Because these inventions are distinct for the reasons given above and the search required for any one Group is not required for any other Group, restriction for examination purposes as indicated is proper.

This application contains claims directed to the following patentably distinct species of the claimed invention:

Group II contains claims directed to the following patentably distinct species: Group IIa, claims 59-65, 67, 69 and 71, directed to a species of an eye lens having a laminate with a center thickness in the range of about .2mm to about 2mm and the lens with a center thickness no greater than about 22.0mm; and Group IIb, claims 66 and 68, directed to a species of an eye lens having a power portion, first and second resinous layers and an adhesive all formed of compatible materials to prevent degradation of any components of the lens over a useful life of the lens.

Applicant is required under 35 U.S.C. 121 to elect a single disclosed species for prosecution on the merits to which the claims shall be restricted if no generic claim is finally held to be allowable. Currently, no claim is generic.

Applicant is advised that a reply to this requirement must include an identification of the species that is elected consonant with this requirement, and a listing of all claims readable thereon, including any claims subsequently added. An argument that a claim is allowable or that all claims are generic is considered nonresponsive unless accompanied by an election.

Upon the allowance of a generic claim, applicant will be entitled to consideration of claims to additional species which are written in dependent form or otherwise include all the limitations of an allowed generic claim as provided by 37 CFR 1.141. If claims are added after the election, applicant must indicate which are readable upon the elected species. MPEP § 809.02(a).

Should applicant traverse on the ground that the species are not patentably distinct, applicant should submit evidence or identify such evidence now of record showing the species to be obvious variants or clearly admit on the record that this is the case. In either instance, if the examiner finds one of the inventions unpatentable over the prior art, the evidence or admission may be used in a rejection under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) of the other invention.

Applicant is advised that the reply to this requirement to be complete must include an election of the invention to be examined even though the requirement be traversed (37 CFR 1.143).

Applicant is reminded that upon the cancellation of claims to a non-elected invention, the inventorship must be amended in compliance with 37 CFR 1.48(b) if one or more of the currently named inventors is no longer an inventor of at least one claim remaining in the application. Any amendment of inventorship must be accompanied by a request under 37 CFR 1.48(b) and by the fee required under 37 CFR 1.17(i).
